Helen Goddard invites you to:

English Conversation Monday Mornings

Starting September 19, 2011 ~ 10 a.m. to 12 p.m.

Olden Farm, 97 Olden Lane

Olden Farm

All are welcome, from beginners in English to native speakers. Its purpose is to introduce everyone to the Institute, the Princeton area, and to each other. Attendance varies but is typically around ten.

So come once, come every week, men are welcome too!

What do we do?

It really depends on the interests of the group but I always have activities ready. Sometimes we read and discuss poetry, or read from a chapter in a book; we discuss words, or look at an item from the news. And we certainly talk about things to do and places to visit. We enjoy learning about other countries and customs and sometimes our elevenses will turn into a cooking session. We may visit local places of interest as a group."

As I am from England living in the US we often find ourselves discussing English versus American customs and language. Native American speakers are particularly welcome.

Elevenses is a popular English tradition and refers to a break for tea or coffee in the middle of the morning, very often with something to nibble too. We take this break half way through our two hour session and I try to make something that is appropriate to our topic of conversation. Sometimes people will bring a traditional snack from their home country to share.

Reservations are not necessary but appreciated.
