Prof. Dr. Shabo Talay
Freie Universität Berlin

The Aramaic Online Project—methods and challenges in creating a Neo-Aramaic literary language.

Shabo Talay is professor of Semitic Studies at the Department of Semitic and Arabic studies, Freie Universität Berlin, Germany. Previously, he was Professor of Arabic Language and Culture at the University of Bergen, Norway. Born in Turabdin, Turkey, Talay grew up in Germany where he received all his education. He holds a PhD in Semitic Studies from Heidelberg University (1997) and Habilitation in Semitic and Islamic Studies from Erlangen-Nuremberg University (2006). His publications deal with different aspects of the Semitic languages, mainly Arabic dialects and Neo-Aramaic, and the history of Syriac Christians. He is the recipient of many European grants. He is currently leading a group of experts in developing teaching materials in Surayt-Aramaic (Turoyo) consisting of text books as well as an online course, funded by the EU.

Thursday, February 27, 2020, 12:30* pm
West Building Seminar Room, IAS

Everyone is welcomed!

*You may bring your lunch or purchase lunch at the Institute’s Dining Hall from 12:00 noon. RSVP María Mercedes Tuya by email to ds@ias.edu.