In anticipation of the beginning of the library project in August, we wanted to communicate the changes in parking access that will help keep our community safe during staging and construction. The number of available parking spots in Lot B will be reduced to 35. Parking lot A is located behind Bloomberg and Wolfensohn Hall.

Existing parking on campus has also been supplemented with more than 100 additional spaces (at the three locations highlighted in green on the map below). In addition, as part of our ongoing efforts to direct construction-related traffic to Maxwell Lane, the northern loop of Einstein Drive will be closed to vehicular traffic (but will remain open to foot traffic).
