

Carolina Branco de Castro Ferreira holds a Bachelor of Social Science, State University of Londrina -Brazil. Final thesis title: Karl Mannheim and Contemporary Literature on Women and Gender. Master's in Social Science, Graduate School of Social Science, State University of Londrina. Thesis title: Women in Movement: Stories of HIV+ Women in the Political Movement Around HIV/Aids in the State of Paraná. PhD. in Social Science, Graduate School of Social Science, State University of Campinas - Brazil. Thesis title: Regulated Desires: Self-help Groups, Sexual-Emotional Ethics and Knowledge Production. Post-doctoral research developed at the Universitat Rovira i Virgili, URV, Tarragona, Spain (2012-2013). Post-doctoral degree at the Research Foundation of São Paulo (FAPESP) associated with the Gender Studies Center - PAGU / Unicamp - Brazil (2014-2017). She is currently a post-doc researcher associated Doctorate Program in Social Sciences Unicamp/ PNPd Grant - Brazil. Carolina has worked with the following themes: gender, sexuality, therapeutic itineraries, health and disease processes, moralities, feminist theory and anthropology theory.